Make the Cars Safe

The collision between two street cars on 109th Street last night calls for investigation, prompt, thorough and conclusive. Two persons were injured badly and one required hospital treatment. The wonder is that the casualties were not several times as many, including some fatalities. It is the business of the city council to find out why the accident occurred and to see that measures are taken to prevent a recurrence. There have been too many accidents on the highways of late. The epidemic must be stopped.

The Sugar Allotment

The Edmonton ration area is to get about 2,500,000 pounds of sugar for preserving fruit. There are estimated to be 10,000 families in the area, averaging 3 1/2 persons per family. Obviously not all the applicants are going to get as much sugar as they asked for. The household which wanted 700 pounds to put up fruit for four people is doomed to a particularly heavy discount. The amount prospectively available works out at four and a half pounds per family, or 18 pounds per head.

While the basis on which the supply will be dealt out has not been announced, it is to be supposed the dividing will be done according to the number of persons to be provided for—not according to the amounts asked for. That is the fair way to make the allotment. To give most to those who asked for the most per head would put a premium on grabbing. Housewives who asked for no more than they ordinarily use per member of the family should not be discriminated against. Rather they should get a few ounces extra in case the division doesn't come out even.

The Quest for Oil

In addition to assistance given to boring operations in southern Alberta, the Dominion is to spend $700,000 this year in the quest for oil in central and northern Alberta. The bulk of the money will go into development of the tar sand deposits in the McMurray area, $200,000 or more into various projects for locating oil fields and helping develop them. The rest will be spent in the quest for oil in the north. The objective is oil; the cost of finding and producing it of minor consequence.

Not all the hunting for oil in the watershed of the Rocky Mountains is confined to the boundaries of this province. Beyond the northern provincial border, operations are actively under way and have been for some time. The oil fields of the north and development is also important. It all sums up into a definite prospect that this city may become one of the great centres of the continent, the distributing point for supplies moving to more than one producing area. Call it foresight or just luck, those who have the money will soon move their stakes in the right place.

Cheap at the Price

Some figures have been given to represent which indicate what it costs to supply equipment to the army. The average fighter plane costs around $165,000. A light bomber costs more and one of the four-engine type $200,000. The bombs which are fairly like half-tones, the Hitler's Europe, on Tunisia, on Kiska, and on Japan bases in the South Pacific, cost from $41 for a 100 pounds to $572 for a two-ton battle-buster. Machine guns come at about $1,500 each, and they spew bullets like water from a hose, which also costs money. A medium submarine represents $3,000,000 and a torpedo $311,000. And whenever fighting is being done, and whatever Allied troops are doing it, Canadian-made munitions are more than enough, as in and in whatever quantities they are needed.

Yes, it costs money to save the lives of our fighting men by supplying them with the things they need. But they are worth saving and deserve saving, whatever the price. We want the "boys" to come back, and the more tools we give them the more they will come back. There must be no scarcity of weapons, or ammunition, or supplies, on any front at any time where it is possible to deliver them. The boys need the guns, trucks, bombs, shells, cartridges, depth charges, torpedoes, must be kept pouring out of the factories, and the less and ever-increasing streams, and kept moving to the fighting zones in larger and larger convoys.

To win the war, yes; and to win it in the shortest possible time and at the loss of the smallest possible number of the men who are doing the fighting for us—Buy Victory Bonds.

True to Type

There is no cause for surprise in the disclosure that Japanese authorities ordered the execution of some of the eight American aviators who were captured in the bombing raid on Tokyo. The eight men learn savagery from their Nazi and Fascist allies. They had reduced it to a fine art. In China years before China's barbarians started the massacre of Chinese, and before Herr Hitler began the systematic slaughter of civilians in Poland, Belgium, Holland and France. To the Japanese, the use of force is employed by the Axis powers in their attempt to terrorize their enemies into submission—and to develop in the enemy people the idea of humanity which the leaders call a major virtue.

The pretence that the American aviators were punished for having machine-gunned civilians in the streets of Tokyo is an after-thought, suggested by the dawning fact that a day of retribution will come to them. They are not to be deliberately killed unarmed people. And there is trustworthy evidence that the bullets which struck Japanese civilians during the raid were bullets fired by Japanese fighter planes attacking the bombers from above. The so-called "executions" were simply official murders prompted by hate and the policy of terrorism.

Those serve to remind Canadians as well as Americans of the kind of enemy we are facing in the Pacific, and to warn the people of both countries of the brutalities they must expect should the Japanese succeed in making a landing on this continent, or in establishing bases from which to launch raids upon populous centres.

A federal order-in-council has been passed which gives the courts authority to hold up proceedings for foreclosing mortgages, postpone payments due, and preserve other conditions. Being general, the order apparently covers all farm mortgages, whenever made. The object is to prevent farmers being forced to pay a very evident war measure at a time when the Allied food supply is so critical that rationing is necessary even in Canada.

Because of claims that the cost-of-living index worked out by the Bureau of Statistics does not correctly represent living costs, statistical officers are to be appointed in eight centres across the Dominion. Aside from enabling the public to keep track of the price trend, the index on the basis on which the cost-of-living bonus is calculated. It is important therefore that the index accurately show the cost level. Statistics Canada will direct reports to the Bureau should help in keeping it so.

Education Is Basis of All Our Social Processes

Reform of Teaching Is Necessary to Continued Progress

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

I am perturbed lest the sudden concern about the teaching of history drive us into wrong directions. There is no easy way to improve history. Teachers are not to be faulted. What they have been taught to teach in the way they have been taught to teach. They have been taught to teach in the way they have been taught to teach. They have been taught to teach in the way they have been taught to teach.

Without this encyclopedic concern about the history of education, the history of education is broken out of the frame and "sublimated" into a utility for itself. This atomization of past life into fragments of knowledge, which are then named into different parts: politics, economics, geography, literature, etc.

This is necessary to the process of learning, provided that the fragments are not too small to be integrated. The fragments are not too small to be integrated. The fragments are not too small to be integrated. The fragments are not too small to be integrated.

There is a systematic record of past life. Our errors do not arise from a misconception of this definition, but from a misconception of what life is.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By CHARLES EDWARDS
TORONTO, April 22.—(CP)—Toronto sports writers gave coach Bob Kneiser the needle because of his explanation for winning Rangers' defeat in the second game of the Memorial Cup hockey final with Chicago. Kneiser claimed publicly given his players after they won the game, that they had been "mentally" tired.

Ed. (Toronto Star) Fitch commented: "Ring Lardner's Alibi" he was strictly from cover compared to western hockey officials and their ability to conjure up excuses to cover details in Memorial Cup play. We've been deluged with such fantasies as difference in atmospheric conditions, the change in drinking water, heat of the garden or wrong underwear. I am always ticked the underwear alibi best.

"It was fouled on us by Edmonton's Hoosiers the year Taylor and his Chicago mates bilked me with a 'sweat' strategy. After dropping the first two games by 9-4 and 10-4 scores, baffled Edmontonians came up with the reason. 'It's the long underwear our kids are wearing. It's so hot in the gardens it begins with'."

Incidentally: Sports given little prominence in the news but high attention among the most popular in Canada are hunting and fishing. When the Thunder Bay Fish and Game Protective Association held its annual dinner at Port Arthur this month, the attendance was 265. The overflow of 60 were seated elsewhere.

Dom DiMaggio Got Glory

Ted Williams Never Given Credit For Great Fielding

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEW YORK, April 23.—Joe Cronin lost his entire outfield—Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio to the navy and Lou Finney to the farm—and the Red Sox were talking about them.

Williams was the best left hand hitter anybody ever saw," remarked Manager Cronin, "and the other two could catch the ball, but little DiMaggio was the only one given full credit in the field."

"In the excitement stirred up by his prodigious drives and by his complete overblown the fact that Williams was an excellent fielder and the three had one great asset in common. They all could throw the ball. Williams, 'Yes,' out at the plate. The ball skipped past him in your glove, but that isn't the reason we miss him."

Cronin expressed the opinion that Williams, in 1941, the American League's first 400 hitter in 18 years, could hit just about what he wanted to.

Carlisle Peacock recalled how, late last summer, Williams, on his way to a league-leading 380 and 137 runs-batted-in, told him that if anybody else hit 400, he'd hit 410. He batted 400 the year before.

Williams had fits of temper and a bad temper, but his degenerative remarks hurtled from the stands.

"With Jack Wilson pitching, Williams started for the plate in Detroit last summer, someone in the left field stand shouted something uncomplimentary."

"With Jack Wilson pitching, Williams started for the plate in Detroit last summer, someone in the left field stand shouted something uncomplimentary."

"Bill Dickey was ahead of him at Yankee Stadium one day. 'He hit one in left,' Dickey would say just to show Dickey that he could do it. Williams filled the order on several successive pitches. Then, growing tired of the game or

Royal Alexandra Hospital Reaches Peak of Capacity

Highest Daily Average Meals Served Reflects Pressure on Facilities

Field Director Over Civilized World Englishmen Celebrating Patron Saint's Feast Day

When the Royal Alexandra hospital served 50,096 meals during the month of March it reached the highest daily average it ever served, namely 2,583, it was revealed in the report submitted to the hospital board Thursday night by F. Heathcote, board purchasing agent.

I Saw Today

This unusually high total is accounted for mostly by the high numbers of patients admitted to the hospital, which reached a daily average of 493, almost reaching capacity. Another contributing factor is the number of meals served to members of the staff as well as the meals which are served to doctors each day.

The total number of meals served from Jan. 1 to March 31 amounted to 152,274, an average of 543 a day. Costs in the serving of meals was reported by Mr. Heathcote as being the cost during 1942 was 117 cents a meal. Highest cost ever reached in the serving of meals was in 1929 when the cost was 148 cents, while the lowest was in 1932 with a cost of 89 cents a meal.

Although the cost of living has gone up, a saving of $800 on food was effected during the month of March. When asked if the cost of the food had deteriorated, he explained that most of this saving had been made through items which it was more difficult to obtain. Figures for the month included $39 on canned vegetables, $109 on canned fruit, $274 on butter, $53 on coffee, $51 on tea, and $83 on jam.

The reduction on milk prices had effected a saving of $280 a month. Although prices on milk had been being used now, Mr. Heathcote said that the cost of milk was in the way of the meals.

Quarried on the type of meals served to patients in public wards, Mr. Heathcote said that there was very little difference. The principal difference was in the way the meals were served.

USE QUOTA SYSTEM

A description of the methods used by the hospital in serving rationed commodities was given by Mr. Heathcote who stated that it was done on a quota basis. There was no difficulty in having the rationed food and coffee supplies. But it was difficult to get the rationed flour and sugar. He said that he had to be fed at the hospital.

Total cost of supplies which is half the total cost of hospital operation, amounted to $191,000. The cost of supplies for the month of March was $191,000, a decrease of three and a half per cent for all supplies during 1943.

Mr. Heathcote also outlined the effect of the war on obtaining certain supplies. Drugs are often difficult to obtain and frequently are also difficult to obtain in quantities of the month of dishes. It is estimated that the hospital consumes approximately 2,000 meals a day and now it is impossible to obtain any rationed commodities at all.

NO LINEN DIFFICULTIES

So far no trouble has been experienced in obtaining linen, but the department expected to have some in the future. Surgical supplies obtained from the United States were slow in arriving. In all cases, however, the hospital had been able to handle the situation.

The Royal Alexandra was one of the few hospitals on the North American continent that kept a ledger for every item purchased and used. It is estimated that the hospital made of every issue made each month as well as the annual total. It was possible to keep a close check on available supplies as well as the amount needed.

An analysis of the financial statement for March showed that savings had exceeded expenditures by $53,202 bringing the total for the three months up to $147,378. Collections on patients' accounts were for $9,364 in March with a total of $147,378 for the three months.

A survey of patients in the hospital during March was 493. Dr. F. A. Anderson, superintendent in charge, reported that there were 36 deaths and 121 births. There was one pair of twins born. There were no major operations performed. There were 11 amputations. Postoperative deaths amounted to two.

The isolation hospital there were 60 patients dead and no deaths. Of the cases treated 66 were scarlet fever and three were mumps. Six scarlet fever patients contracted mumps.

Patients Need Ration Books

You may be a bit frightened when you're rushed off to hospital and think that you'll probably never eat again—but the chances are that you will, when waiting for the ambulance to arrive don't forget to snatch up your ration book before you leave.

At patients at the Royal Alexandra hospital are supposed to have their ration books right along with them if they have a ration book. A list was revealed by F. Heathcote, purchasing agent, who has just received among men who are known only to God.

DOUBLED EXISTENCE

John George, St. George's reformed, doubted the existence of St. George, but there are two St. Georges, one in the churches which would seem to have been established by St. George, one in the center of an early Christian cult, of which St. George may have been founder, or leader.

Further proof in his existence is found in a canon of Pope Gelasius, who in 494 A.D. listed George as one of a number whose names are justly revered, among men who are known only to God.

Other stories surrounding the name and legends of St. George are so intricate and interwoven that they are hard put to draw the line between fact and fancy, concerning the many actions attributed to the patron saint of the English.

Beautiful eyes are necessary for any woman, but are particularly important for screen stars. The eyes need cleansing as much as the ears, face, neck, or any other part of the body.
